Rules relaxed at MK Hospital maternity unit

BY ADAM GRINSELL

adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

CONDITIONS enforced on the city hospital's maternity unit have been lifted.

Nine of the 12 legal conditions imposed on Milton Keynes NHS Trust, to make sure the unit improved its staffing levels and processes, have now been removed.

One such requirement, imposed by the Care Quality Commission (CQC) the independent regulator of health and adult social care in England, was the need to ensure all women in established labour receive one-to-one care from a registered midwife.

The trust is also required to have appropriate systems to detect and monitor 'at risk' mothers and babies, to ensure suitable care is provided at all times.

The CQC is now satisfied that these are being met, but states the trust is still expected to continue with these high standards.

Roxy Boyce, regional director for the CQC in the South East, said the regulators had longstanding concerns about the quality of maternity services, level of staffing, and whether the maternity unit could cope with unscheduled surges in demand.

She said: "While the trust has recently recruited more midwives, we recognise that this is a continuing challenge in Milton Keynes, and must remain a high priority for some time to come.

"However, Milton Keynes Hospital NHS Foundation Trust has now made a concerted effort to address concerns which have been overshadowing its maternity services and damaging the trust's standing with the local population.

"Childbirth is a stressful time for mothers. They, and their families, need to have confidence that they are in the best place when the time comes.

"But we must be clear. While we have decided to relax the legal condition which insists one registered midwife for every woman in the established stages of labour, every woman is entitled to high standards of supportive care during labour and we will still expect the trust to observe best practice in this.

"We will continue to monitor the performance and we will be prepared to take further action if it becomes necessary."

The maternity service came in for strong critisism following the deaths of two newborn babies on the ward.

After the death of Romy Mae Feast in June 2007, the Healthcare Commission made 12 recommendations to the NHS Trust, in particular pointing to an immediate need for more midwives.

Then in May 2009, Ebony Rose Comley-McCall died due to there being "far too many mums and not enough midwives", according to deputy coroner Thomas Osborne.

A report released at the beginning of this year by the CQC found there were "a number of areas where sufficient progress has not been made", which led to the imposition of the legal requirements in April.

Interim hospital chief executive Mark Millar said: "We accepted that there were areas for improvement within the hospital and we have been working hard to make sure those improvements happen.

"We are pleased that the CQC has recognised this progress and agreed to lift the majority of the conditions.

"Patients can feel reassured that we are offering safe, quality care. But we are not complacent. Through this process we have set ourselves very high standards and we are committed to delivering excellent care across all of our services.

"Our staff and the senior management team are determined to ensure we are delivering the very best care for our patients. We see this as the first step on a journey of continuous improvement."

The CQC say the three conditions that have not been lifted have been met by the trust so far, but more time is needed to demonstrate the improvements are being implemented correctly.

Rob McAlister started his umbrella business in the garage on the side of his house

Brolly boss never minds the weather

FROM hands-free, to wind-proof, to ball-retrieving to UV protecting Rob McAlister's umbrella company has them all.

The boss of Umbrella Heaven in Leighton Buzzard and self-proclaimed 'umbrologist', said: "I set the company up five years ago, from the garage on the side of my house. It started off with an idea which has become a passion.

"We're on record again this year to make around £1m and our website has a million hits a day.

"We've brought out new technology which has really hit it off, for example the witch-hat umbrellas, which are stronger than most. We hope to make umbrellas a fashion item, and it's working."

Based at Young's Industrial Estate, the company even has help for rain-soaked cyclists in the shape of the Nubrella – a bubble-like brolly designed to protect cyclists from the rain.

Homeless families in B&Bs outside city

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

TWENTY five families awaiting council accommodation are being housed in bed and breakfasts outside the city.

There are currently 30 families homed in B&Bs while they wait for a council house, 25 of which are outside the city as far away as Bedford, Wellingborough and Dunstable.

This means many are having to travel long distances for school and work.

Cllr Chris Williams, cabinet member for housing, said although the council is doing its best to keep waiting families in the city, there is no way to do so with so many people coming in and a shortage of available places.

He said: "We're experiencing a 'flat line' of properties available from the private sector, with people unwilling to move out in the current climate, so we've had to resort to putting people into B&Bs.

"It's not our first choice but it's the best way we have of keeping families together.

"Living in Bedford does mean an increase in travel time for school and work but we are limited for choice."

There are currently 159 'Category A' cases of people waiting for accommodation, who have had an assessment test and have the most urgent need.

These cases may be single people, single parents, or whole families, so the number of people actually waiting for urgent accommodation could be a lot higher.

Labour Cllr Steve Coventry believes the problem is the current housing system and due to the change in the way people are assessed for accommodation, families and children are now suffering.

He said: "I've been campaigning ever since the waiting list was done away with four or five years ago.

"These are people we would have been able to house in the system we used to work to.

"There are families being turned away that are in desperate need and that to me is completely unacceptable.

"It's deceitful saying we don't have a waiting list when all those people are in B&Bs."

New 'Face' to play panto's King Rat

THERE is a new 'Face' appearing in panto this Christmas.

Due to health problems, Hollywood star Luke Perry has been forced to pull out of MK Theatre's production of Dick Whittington.

Although his condition is not serious it does mean he is unable to fly and will not be able to travel from America to undertake the role of King Rat this Christmas.

Stepping into the breach in a fashion true to his action-hero roots will be TV legend Dirk Benedict, famous for his roles as the original Lieutenant Templeton 'Face' Peck in The A-Team and Starbuck in Battlestar Galactica.

No stranger to Britain, Dirk recently starred in 2007's Celebrity Big Brother, and delighted fans with a special cameo in the blockbuster Hollywood remake of The A-Team earlier this year.

Claire Ward, marketing manager at the heatre said: "We appreciate Luke's fans may be disappointed but we hope that everyone will join us in wishing Luke a speedy recovery and welcome Dirk to the role of King Rat."

Dirk will be joining Gavin and Stacey's Joanna Page and Britain's Got Talent favourites Stavros Flatley.

Accountant jailed after £500k fraud

THIS man has been jailed for five years for a series of fraud and money laundering offences.

Keith Fisher, 65, of Stony Stratford, was found guilty of six counts of fraud by abuse of position, four of fraud by false representation and one of money laundering.

Fisher, who was a senior partner in a chartered accountancy firm in Stony Stratford at the time of the offences, was also convicted of obtaining credit while being an undischarged bankrupt.

David Myers, 51, of Goldington Road, Bedford, was also found guilty of two counts of fraud by false representation and one of money laundering.

The convictions came about after a member of public contacted police claiming that Fisher had stolen approximately £300,000 from them as part of scheme to invest in commercial property in London.

When any return on the investment failed to appear, the victim in the case confronted Fisher, who informed them that he and Myers had invested the money into a scheme to free funds from officials in Nigeria.

The two men persuaded the victim to hand over a further £100,000 to cover losses that had been sustained.

A further £15,000 was fraudulently obtained from the victim by Myers for a scheme that involved a box of money at Heathrow Airport. Once again no money was ever raised from the scheme.

Subsequent investigations carried out by police identified a number of other victims, bringing the total amount of misappropriated funds to around £500,000.

The men were sentenced on September 27 at Peterborough Crown Court, after being convicted on September 24.

DS Gary Hughes said: "I am pleased with the result and I hope that it sends out a strong message to those who would prey on people. I would also urge people to be vigilant to these types of scams and warn them to always be careful when it comes to how you are investing your money.

"If something looks to good to be true, it often is."

Jailed: Fraudster Keith Fisher of Stony Stratford

Council set to take over sports club but trustees left in limbo

THE sports club at the centre of a legal wrangle between its pensioner volunteer trustees and the council may be wound up.

Milton Keynes Sports Club in Woughton on the Green is home to men's and women's hockey clubs, tennis clubs, and provides MK Dons with their training facilities.

It intends to cease trading on October 25 following a discussion with members at an AGM on October 15.

As reported in this paper, the council recently started legal proceedings against trustees Trevor Leach, 74, and 63-year-old Vanda Joss, to recover debts of £120,000 which it claims is owed to it for the hire of the facilities, including the modern water-based hockey pitches.

This amount could rise to over £200,000 when legal fees are taken into consideration, which increase every day the proceedings continue.

Mrs Joss and Mr Leach have now resigned from their posts as trustees.

Philippa Callcut, vice-chairman of the club, said: "If we wind up then the council should come back to the sports club, take any monies out of it and stop the pursuit of the trustees.

"The club provided the facilities and it wasn't done by Trevor and Vanda personally."

Conservative councillors will forward a motion at next week's council meeting mirroring this sentiment, to try to encourage the council to recover the money from elsewhere.

In the meantime the council has announced it intends to take over the running of the pavilion and sports grounds and the employment of staff.

A council spokesman said: "Legal action has finally led to the club informing the council of its intention to wind up and cease trading on October 25.

"This means the council intends taking over the running of the pavilion and attached sports grounds at Woughton on the Green and the employment of the staff from that date.

"The council will be seeking meetings with the club's users, local residents and the parish council to ensure that the transition is as seamless as possible so that it can proceed to establish a robust, much improved and comprehensively used community facility going forward.

"The council will not be taking over responsibility for any existing debts of the club.

"By leasing a facility, organisations and individuals do take on contractual obligations. We expect rent and other sums to be paid in full and on time so that private facilities are not effectively subsidised by taxpayers.

"We also understand that the trustees of the club have resigned their trusteeship. However, we are still negotiating with the trustees about the forfeiture of the lease and monies owed so this issue can finally be resolved."

Sneaky councillors

SIR – It boiled my blood to read that the parking plans have been sneaked in despite the opposition.

I still cannot see why the council feels this is a good idea. It will cost £900k and bring in £2m.

Assuming this is true, what about the cost of lost trade to shops in the area?

Shopping habits can also be influenced by the parking regime around shops.

A more astute businesswoman or man will tell you that there is a greater chance of more trade if the shopper is not in a hurry to get back to their car.

The option is to head to shops like Tesco, etc. There is a reason – their carparks are free you know.

I guarantee that the £900k is going to line the pockets of the contractor and the £2m is not likely to reduce the council tax in MK – you are more likely to see increased bonuses paid out.

Who are these faceless people at the council anyway that have such skewed imaginations?

I note the name: Vanessa McPake, cabinet member for transport.

Other MK citizens should note this too.

I wish someone would let us all know all the names of the councillors who voted this in.

Come next election, I will offer my services for free to campaign against them all.

Will Omo

■ SIR – Congratulations to the MK Council on continuing to try to see how unpopular and incompetent they can get.

The next phase should be an additional tax for the privilege of working or shopping at what used to be a 'regional shopping centre'.

Survey details needed on Tesco store plans

SIR – Re 'Tesco tries again for Newport Pagnell store'.

I would like to see the full details of this survey carried out by Tesco – how many people were surveyed, the full list of questions asked, was the survey conducted by phone, or face-to-face and when it was carried out,

The results are at odds to the voting at the public meeting on August 12.

Terry Murphy
Sent by e-mail

■ SIR – Why not Tesco in Newport? we already have a monopoly of supermarket interests with Co-op and Somerfield.

Tesco's presence would give competition. this has to be good as long as their plans are environmentaly friendly towards the town, I see no reason to refuse their planning application.

Derry Cooper
Sent by e-mail

■ SIR – You asked for comments on your article about Tesco's decision to put forward their planning application.

I have been opposed to this application from when they started last year in 2009.

This site should be designated for housing and not for a supermarket.

Many people are not opposed to Tesco's or supermarkets, we all use them from time to time. However this location for Tesco's will start killing a lively high street which has taken many years to recover from the development of Milton Keynes.

Tesco make great play on the jobs that will be created, but do not consider the ones that will be lost over time from the High Street.

The most intriguing thing about your article is Tesco's own survey which, surprise, surprise, shows a slight balance in their favour of having a store.

This seems to contradict the previous application which was withdrawn after a huge number of people wrote to the planning committee against the application versus the fewer than 10 letters in favour.

The recent public meeting showed many more against than for, can we believe Tesco on any level?

If they get their claws into the site there will be undoubtedly further planning applications to increase the size of the store, price undercutting of the Co-operative store and other shops, the building of a petrol station and so on.

I advise people in Newport Pagnell and surrounding areas to seriously think whether this does bring choice and competition to Newport Pagnell or will we end up like Wolverton and many other towns around the country who have had this large cuckoo in the nest to contend with?

Chris Holroyde
Priory Street, Newport Pagnell

■ SIR – It's understandable that the no's got the vote at the meeting – it's normal for people who feel strongly against something to turn up to voice their opinion.

People who are happy or indifferent are less likely to turn out.

Having a Tesco will be good for Newport, it will break the Co-op's monopoly on the High Street and whilst I will shop there, I'll still use the local butchers as they are so good.

It will bring people into the town, and may even cause more people to use the High Street.

Is it because councils/housing association do not bother with single people?

Axing free parking an ill-researched scheme

SIR – The council's decision to abolish free parking spaces in CMK marks the end of an era.

It's time to look back in wonder at the original masterplan of Milton Keynes, where all parking was free and the city was a model of thoughtful planning.

But enough of nostalgia.

What does this tell us about the state of our local government?

Residents, major retailers and small tradespeople have all spoken up loud and clear against the abolition of free parking, fearing its impact on lower-paid workers and nearby estates, already disrupted by overspill parking.

In earlier meetings, Cllr Vanessa McPake plainly admitted that she has no data on who uses the free spaces or what the consequences of abolition will be.

Yet she has persisted in ignoring our rational queries and objections, and forcing through an ill-researched scheme.

So now we are faced with a problem of the council's making.

There will be more disruptive parking in Campbell Park, Fishermead, Conniburrow and so on. And the solution? Cllrs McPake and Alan Mallyon loftily brush us aside and say we can apply for parking permits.

But as for who will enforce them, and how much this doubtful privilege will cost us, they are dumb.

All I can say to other disgruntled voters is this: do not forget. If you think your councillors are complacent, stubborn or arrogant, remember their names. And vote them out at the very next chance.

Linda Inoki
Campbell Park

Expansion could be good fro everyone

SIR – Your news item relating to the emerging LEP for the MK area flags-up the necessity for MK not to be dragged-down by the potential for introverted 'localism' by surrounding local authorities.

MK's great success has only come about through its growth being promoted by central government as an act of regional policy – not by localism.

If it had been left to localism to get things moving back in the late 1960s, MK would never have got off the ground.

The new localism that is now spreading like wildfire around Britain looks like being a recipe for thinking small, disguised as an appeal for only expanding to meet local needs – opting for a few houses here and a few more there kind of approach.

We in Milton Keynes should be bolder than that and resist the invitation to remain a cosy little market town and not be dragged-down by the restrictive and nimbyist attitudes of neighbouring authorities.

A significantly bigger MK would be good for everyone.

With a bigger population comes more houses and more choice in housing plus more schools and more choice there too.

There would be more shopping opportunities, leisure and cultural facilities etc.

The bigger city offers the individual more employment choice and the employer more people to choose from thus giving a situation where everyone gains.

Most of us in MK are basically newcomers to this area so who are we to complain about others wishing to also live here?

I detect no groundswell of opposition to further city growth.

MK could find it easier to pursue its high-tech city goal.

What reasonable person would think that this was such a bad idea? The answer is... our local councillors!

Seemingly they lack vision, exhibit timidity and underestimate the great strengths that MK possesses, being too pessimistic about the good that it can offer to the wider community. They need to give leadership and think more boldly.

I propose that MK opts to be a 'real' city and grows to be home to about a million citizens enjoying MK's great environment and deriving huge advantage from an enhanced range of facilities of all kinds, in such a way MK would be properly 'open for business' in the way that the MK Council currently proclaims.

What is so wrong with us sharing our advantages with others and all of us benefiting in the process?

Mike O'Sullivan
Latimer, Stony Stratford

Free parking set to go in new year

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

CONTROVERSIAL changes to car parking in the city centre will go ahead as planned, with the removal of all 3,872 free spaces on Janurary 31.

The cabinet finally gave the plans the rubber stamp in a meeting last Tuesday.

The initial decision to enforce the changes, made in July, was referred back to cabinet with a number of provisos after a critique of the process by a scrutiny committee.

Vanessa McPake, the member responsible for transport, said those conditions have now been met and, subject to a statutory consultation starting in October, the changes will be implemented in the new year.

This means all 3,872 green free spaces will be replaced with standard purple spaces, and red premium rate spaces will be increased by 981.

There will be no increase in charges, CMK employees will still have a 50 per cent discount on standard spaces, and Resident Parking Permit Holders will be able to park in standard spaces for free.

The decision was met with anger and protests in a packed room of CMK residents and campaigners.

Many are angry at the drastic removal of free spaces, such as residents in places like Conniburrow who said shoppers and workers already park in residential streets, blocking the roads and pavements, and the removal of free spaces will exacerbate the problem.

Subject to a statutory consultation starting in October, changes to car parking charges in MK will be implemented in the new year

City centre shop owners say the move will mean those workers on minumum wage will be losing around four per cent of their income.

Councillor John Bint, chair of the Executive Scrutiny Committee, said they originally referred the decision back to cabinet because it hadn't considered the economic impact, the impact on shop assistants and the impact on nearby residential streets.

In last week's meeting he was still not happy, saying: "This is a tax on shop staff and you haven't done any of the things the Exectutive Scrutiny Committee asked for."

But cllr McPake maintains the report she presented is as a result of their recommendations and a lengthy consultation with all parties involved.

She said: "If there proves to be any problems with parking overspill, I have told residents if they want parking permits they can have them, and they will be free."

Council committee to look again at traveller site cash

OPPONENTS to a proposed travellers' site at Fenny Lock are being left on tenterhooks as councillors continue to scrap over the issue.

The decision to go ahead with the £1.8million build was made in the summer, but councillors and residents continue to fight the plan.

Opposition councillors say the decision to build the ten pitches was made based on information that the money provided by the Government for the project was specifically designated for traveller accommodation.

Since then it has emerged that the £1.8million was not ringfenced for the facility, and can be reallocated if the council decides there is a more worthy cause.

In a packed meeting last Tuesday the cabinet was heckled from the public gallery and blasted by opposition councillors as it decided to continue with the tendering process to build the site, which will be discussed in December.

But in the meantime the council's overview and scrutiny management committee, which looks at the council's performance, has been invited to look at whether the money should be used elsewhere.

This means the project could yet be scrapped.

Fenny Lock resident John Groves said: "We're delighted that the council has seen common sense. They are questioning if Fenny Lock is the most appropriate site with regards to cost and location, and until that's found out it doesn't make much sense to start building."

Manning pair bailed

THE two men arrested on suspicion of murder in the ten-year-long Rachel Manning case have been released on bail.

The 38-year-old and 35-year-old, from the Bletchley area, were arrested on Tuesday September 28 and have now been released until the end of November.

Rachel Manning's body was found on Woburn Golf Club in December 2000 after she went missing following a fancy dress party. A postmortem found she had been strangled and badly beaten.

Weary Willen Hospice fundraisers take a break on top of the Pyrenees

Saddle-sore cyclists back from Barcelona

BY KIRSTEN RAWLINS
kirsten.rawlins@mk-news.co.uk

THE WillenHospice charity riders have finally returned after an 11-day trip to Barcelona.

The bikers are well on their way to raising their goal total, with an expected sum of £10,500 to £11,000 on the cards.

Mark Robinson, one of the Willen cyclists, said: "It was absolutely fantastic, it really was amazing. It was very demanding for people who are non-cyclists but I would definitely want to do it again.

"I'm really chuffed with what we've done so far."

The group-of-13 journeyed 815 miles from Brighton to Barcelona in an attempt to raise £10,000 for Willen Hospice.

During their venture the group wrote an online daily blog for MK NEWS, telling readers of their activities – including a trek over the Pyrenees – to being greeted by city officials in Barcelona at the monument of La Rambla.

Mark added: "The hardest part was getting on that saddle in the morning.

"No really, climbing the Pyrenees was so hard, but getting to do something like that was amazing, just the feeling of elation was unreal.

"I had more feeling of elation at that moment than when we reached Barcelona.

"To actually go over a mountain range - you can never prepare for something like that in Milton Keynes. Once you're up there, it isn't until you pass the ski lifts that you actually realise just how high-up you really are.

"It was great when we got to Barcelona, but so sad to come to the end. We were even met by city officials sent from the mayor's office.

"It was really touching the fact someone got in touch with them and told them what we were doing and how much we'd raised.

"They thought it was an amazing thing to do.

"We're well on the way now to raising between £10,500 and £11,000. All the money raised will go to charity, not just the profit, as we funded the trip ourselves.

"But the fundraising still isn't over, we're looking to raise as much as possible.

"There's so much unknown about the hospice and their patients. Things like £105 can buy meals for all the patients at the hospice for a day. And £50 pays for a session of grievance counselling.

"Any donations, no matter how small, really can make a difference."

Inspirational mum gets VIP treatment

A MUM has had the chance to shine in the spotlight and meet the stars

CarolAnn McKiernon enjoyed a makeover and a visit to Milton Keynes Theatre as a winner in the MK NEWS Hairspray competition which tried to find MK's most inspirational mum.

CarolAnn was nominated for the prize by her 21-year-old daughter Danni.

Danni said: "She is the most caring, selfless and loving person I have ever met. My mum had my brother and I before the age of 21, she raised us single-handed and provided us with the best of everything, sending us to university was a great achievement for her.

"Over the past few years her health has deteriorated, with serious spinal surgery knocking every ounce of confidence she had. Now I am 21 I want to give her something back, so she knows she is really appreciated and a true inspiration to both of her grateful children"

The makeover took place at Lifestyle Salons in Newport Pagnell where she had a fabulous hair cut and colour as well as a luxury manicure and make-up to complete the look followed by a VIP night at the Theatre to watch Hairspray and get a chance to meet the stars of the show Brian Conley and Les Dennis backstage.

CarolAnn said "I don't really know what I've done to deserve this but its amazing"

Hairspray runs until this Saturday.

Two causes to benefit from the Wishing Pool

TWO charities' wishes have come true this Christmas.

The Brain Injuries Rehabilitation Trust and Milton Keynes & North Bucks RSPCA have been chosen as joint beneficiaries of thecentre:mk's Wishing Pool at the Christmas Storyland Adventure at thecentre:mk.

The Wishing Pool is a central feature to the annual Christmas Show in Middleton Hall and is used to raise money for local charity organisations and community groups.

Since 1985 more than £340,000 has been raised and distributed to projects that benefit the local community.

Some of the groups that have been beneficiaries over previous years include GEMK, Age Concern Milton Keynes, MK Reader Service, MK Wildlife Trust, MK Community Cardiac Group, Great Ormond Street Hospital, the Calvert Trust, St Tiggywinkles, MK SNAP and the Ark Charity.

The Milton Keynes & North Bucks RSPCA is entirely self-funded and is supported by a dedicated team of volunteers. Receiving no financial support from either the central RSPCA or the Government the team rely on the support of local people and businesses to continue the vital work of helping animals in need.

In 2009 they provided treatment for, or re-homed, approximately 1,000 animals and the vet bills alone were £136,386.

The money raised will go towards a new RSPCA ambulance.

Meanwhile, the Brain Injuries Rehabilitation Trust is a unit for adults with an acquired brain injury.

It seeks to enable people who have suffered a brain injury the opportunity to develop their full potential for independent living.

The multi-disciplinary team provides a holistic and person-centred approach in order to maximise each service user's independence focusing on the development of useful skills and increased self-esteem through vocational training and work placement schemes.

The money raised will go towards equipment including specialist wheelchairs and beds which will have a real impact on a day-to-day basis.

Melanie Beck, head of advertising and communications for thecentre:mk said: "This year the decision making process was incredibly difficult as we witnessed the highest number of applications for Wishing Pool in thecentre:mk's history, with 45 charities submitting applications. However, we were impressed with both charities and in the end decided that for the first time in a number of years the proceeds would be split.

"However, in choosing two charities we have been rather ambitious as the target the Wishing Pool need's to raise is £17,000. We also hope to develop relationships with both charities throughout 2011. We did this in 2010 with the Wishing Pool beneficiary last year, the Ark charity, benefiting from staff visiting the Ark House performing maintenance work and a team from thecentre:mk taking part in the Ramshackle Rally to Valencia raising even more money for the cause."

This year's Christmas show opens on Friday, November 19.

In for a penny – in for a pound: Debbie Elwick and Gwyneth Statch from the Brain Injuries Rehabilitation Trust, Melanie Beck, head of advertising & communications at thecentre:mk and Jean Kelly from the Milton Keynes & North Bucks RSPCA provide a handy hint of what the Wishing Pool needs this year

Pair set up new group for 'mumtrepreneurs'

'MUMTREPRENEURS' will soon have a place to help get their business off the ground with a new social group set up by mums, for mums.

Future Options MK is a group set up to help mothers get back into work, network socially and have brunch seminars on subjects like recruitment and CV writing.

Set up by working mums Charlotte Rooke and Corinne Gouws, both 37, they hope to help mothers build their confidence and realise what options are out there for them.

Charlotte said: "Four years ago I had my second child. I was probably a bit depressed and thought motherhood wasn't what I was looking for.

"I looked for jobs in the local papers and the only jobs were in local retail, so I took a seasonal job at Next.

"From there my friends noticed how confident I became. I worked part-time with a charity and I was flexible.

"It was about rebuilding the confidence, and I love my job because I have the flexibility of working from home."

The pair met eight years ago at a gymboree class, and decided to set up the group after speaking to other mums in their situation.

Charlott added: "Becoming a full-time mum changes your perceptions and you lose your confidence.

"This group has been set up to help mums and tell people there are flexible options there for them. We're going to be starting an online social network on Facebook, and if there's enough interest we're in the process of creating a website.

Charlotte Rooke and Corinne Gouws are starting up a mums back to work network group

"We'll run social brunches in Milton Keynes for people to meet each other and if they like us they can join the club, which wil give them access to learning brunches on things like building confidence, CV writing, recruitment and further education, with specialised speakers."

Not only for women, if enough stay-at-home or single dads turn up to their welcome meeting, they will also run sessions designed for men.

Their first welcome meeting, where membership will be half price at £20, is on Saturday October 9 at 10am at Jury's Inn, and anyone wishing to go along should call Charlotte and Corinne on 07850 289122, or join their Facebook group, Future Options MK.

Coachway link bus service entered for national award

A CITY bus service is up for a national award.

The PlatinumMK 300 bus service has been shortlisted for the prestigious 2010 UK Bus Awards.

Selected from 200 entries across the country, the project has been entered in the 'Winning New Customers' category and will go forward to the final judging before the award ceremony in November.

The award recognises schemes that aim to encourage car users to leave their car at home and use the bus.

The service, run in partnership between Milton Keynes Council, Milton Keynes Partnership and Arriva, was launched in April last year and has so far seen over 200,000 passenger journeys.

The route connects Milton Keynes Central Station and Central Milton Keynes with Brooklands, Broughton Gate, Kingston and Magna Park and will eventually link the eastern and western expansion areas of Milton Keynes.

Cllr Vanessa McPake, responsible for transport, said: "We are absolutely delighted to be shortlisted for this prestigious award. The 300 bus service is proving to be a great success in providing a sustainable mode of transport and a real alternative to the car.

"The 300 service will be the main bus service connecting the Coachway with Central Milton Keynes."

Tim Roxburgh, director of MK Partnership said, "The bus service has proved to be very popular with passengers. Being shortlisted by the UK Bus Awards is fantastic recognition for this project."

The buses have a number of state-of-the-art features including low floor, easy access, free wi-fi connection, air conditioning, a digital CCTV system inside and out as well as extra legroom and more space for buggies. Their engines go further than the latest emission regulations so they are better for the environment.

Maternity panel's meeting success

THE inaugral Maternity Services Panel meeting has been hailed as a success by everyone involved.

The panel, which includes councillors, members of hospital staff and independents, met with the public for the first time last Wednesday to hear feedback on any concerns there might be with the current service.

Milton Keynes Hospital maternity unit received bad press over the last year following the deaths of two babies, which resulted in the Care Quality Commission imposing conditions including the need for one midwife for every woman who goes into labour.

The panel now wants to reassure the public of the improved service, and to find out what else the unit can do to continue to progress.

John Oates, a senior lecturer in developmental psychology at the Open University, is the independent chairman of the Maternity Services Panel.

He said: "We want to make sure women who are having babies understand what's being provided now and not what was happening two years ago, as we have really improved over the last two years and so we want them to feel reassured.

The Maternity Services Panel has been set up to help improve care following concerns over baby deaths at MK Hospital

"It was great to see such a turnout from all levels in the hospital, the trust and all the agency services like Sure Start, and I think we built some really good bridges for the future.

"I've analysed and collated the feedback, and we have some really good issues to carry forward.

"There's a really positive message to send out to Milton Keynes, particularly to mums who are pregnant, and that is that things have come on leaps and bounds."

The Maternity Services Panel will meet twice more later in the year, the next being towards the end of October.

Publicity puts A-level student on jobs track

A STRAIGHT-A student who was refused a university place and work experience has an interview lined-up, thanks to MK NEWS.

Flora Morris, 18, was unable to gain work experience placements – her only chance to get into university.

But since MK NEWS published her story, Milton Keynes Hospital and a local physiotherapist contacted us, asking for her details.

Flora said: "It's such a relief. I now know that I'll more than likely be doing something worthwhile for the next year.

"I had a meeting with the hospital and they said there's a good chance I can get a job, which means I'll not only be getting experience, but also be earning.

"I'll be needing money if I go to university in London as planned.

"They told me that it's unusual for the hospital to offer meetings and potential jobs to people with no previous experience.

"So without the help of MK NEWS, they probably wouldn't have been interested.

"I've now got an interview on Monday for a healthcare assistant post at the main Milton Keynes General Hospital."

Rosemary Dooley, Interim chief operating officer at Milton Keynes Hospital, said: "We were delighted to meet with Flora. We have encouraged her to apply for a care assistant post and have also suggested a number of ways we can help her progress.

"She is clearly a bright and determined young woman and we are keen to give her any support we can.

"We would like to thank MK NEWS for bringing her to our attention."

Couple kept flea-infested terrier

Owners fined and banned from keeping dogs and cats

A COUPLE has been banned from keeping dogs and cats for two years after being found guilty of causing unnecessary suffering to a dog.

Sarah Packwood, 31, and Daniel Marshall, 33, of Blackdown Fullers Slade, were found to have failed to provide veterinary treatment for a severe flea allergy.

Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court heard how the west highland terrier dog, called Minty, was suffering from a severe flea allergy dermatitis, which had caused fur loss and cracking of the skin.

A veterinary expert said that Minty would have been suffering for at least six weeks from the condition.

The couple were each fined £300, ordered to pay costs of £500 and a victim surcharge of £15.

They were disqualified from keeping all cats and dogs for two years, and the court made a deprivation order on Minty to be signed over into the care of the RSPCA.

During the hearing the couple said they had tried to treat the allergy but admitted that they had failed to take Minty to a vet.

Minty, a west highland terrier had a severe flea allergy which had caused fur loss and cracking of the skin Picture from RSPCA

Speaking after the case RSPCA inspector Sue Haywood said: "Minty was suffering from extensive fur loss on his back, tail, legs and under belly.

"His skin was grey and covered in scabs and sores and he was persistently scratching himself.

"Although the couple did try to treat the allergy with over-the-counter products, when this didn't work they still didn't seek to take Minty to a vet, which is what they should have done.

"If an animal is clearly suffering, then it is the owner's responsibility to ensure that it receives the right care and treatment and they should always seek veterinary advice."

Scheme to reduce school run chaos

Walking or biking will keep kids fit and reduce traffic

MK Council has introduced a new month-long scheme to encourage children to walk or cycle to school.

Walk 'n' Roll is being launched from Monday, October 11 in time for Walk to School Month, a campaign to promote a healthier way to travel to school and to ease congestion during the rush hour.

Swapping the car for walking or cycling to school contributes to the 60 minutes of exercise recommended for each child and can help to cut carbon emissions, says the council.

Seventeen schools have signed up in Milton Keynes for the scheme. If they achieve the target set by the school then they will qualify for leisure vouchers.

The leisure centres supporting the scheme are Bletchley Leisure Centre, Oakgrove Leisure Centre, Tattenhoe Pavilion and Shenley Church End.

They are offering free swims and sessions for table tennis and badminton to name just few.

Cllr Vanessa McPake, responsible for transport, said: "I am delighted to announce that Milton Keynes Council is encouraging our young people to walk and cycle to school.

"We want to reduce congestion at the school gate, improve children's health and get more children used to walking or cycling rather than being stuck in the car on the way to school.

"We must provide good schemes to keep them fit whilst also helping to reduce the number of cars at our school gates."

To take part or for more information contact the council's school travel adviser Jacqueline Fairclough on 01908 252248.

Point assault is caught on CCTV cameras

A MAN being assaulted by a group of around nine men has been captured on CCTV cameras.

Between six and eight black men, plus one white man, were seen to chase the victim outside The Point and down Lower Ninth Street at around 5.20pm on September 29.

The white man was seen to run towards the victim and one of the black men is seen assaulting him.

The victim, a black man, who has not been identified by the police and has not contacted the police, was wearing a black padded hooded jacket and jeans. Police are urging the victim to contact them, so they can assist with the incident and ensure he is not injured.

The white man was wearing a white belt and trousers. The black man who assaulted the victim was wearing a dark-coloured hooded jumper with a beige body warmer over the top and a black baseball cap with a white emblem on.

There were a number of people waiting at the bus stop on Lower Ninth Street who would have seen the group running past and police are keen to speak to these people as they may have information vital to the investigation.

The victim and any witnesses should contact PC Jennifer Van Santen at Milton Keynes police station via the 24-hour Police Enquiry Centre on 0845 8 505 505 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

OAP thwarts burglar

A BURGLAR left empty-handed after a 91-year-old refused to give up the goods.

The offender entered the home at around 9pm, when the pensioner was in his living room and disturbed the burglar in the kitchen.

The burglar demanded the pensioner's wallet and searched through his coat and shopping bags.

But the 91-year-old refused to hand over his wallet meaning the burglar was forced to leave empty-handed.

The offender is white, aged in his thirties, 5ft 9ins and of large build. He spoke with a local accent and was wearing a khaki coat and a cap.

Anyone with information should contact PC Karen Waters via the 24-hour Police Enquiry Centre on 0845 8 505 505 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Passengers rob cabbie

A TAXI driver was robbed by three passengers in Springfield.

The driver picked up five men outside Greenleys shops, in Ardwell Lane, at around 2.10am.

The driver dropped off two of the passengers at the junction of Bradwell Road and High Street, New Bradwell and they continued to walk down Harwood Street.

The driver continued with the remaining three men until they reached Springfield Boulevard, Springfield, at around 2.30am.

One of the passengers got out of the vehicle, opened the driver's door and as he did this, distracting the driver, the front seat passenger assaulted the driver and stole his mobile phone.

All three men ran off in the direction of Beverley Place.

The man who assaulted the driver and stole his mobile is Asian, aged between 18 and 19, approximately 5ft 8ins, slim, with a fair complexion.

He was clean shaven and wearing a faded black hooded top with the hood up and black jeans.

The man who got out of the vehicle and opened the driver's door, is white, aged about 19, approximately 5ft 10ins and slim, but slightly bigger than the main offender and clean shaven.

He was wearing a cream hooded top with the hood up.

The third offender is black, with a dark complexion, aged between 18 and 19 and approximately 6ft.

He was wearing a dark-coloured baseball cap, a plain black hooded top and was carrying a small black bag.

Anyone with information should contact DC John Swallow at Milton Keynes police station via the 24-hour Police Enquiry Centre on 0845 8 505 505 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Mike and Liz with their solar panel heating system

Sunshine powers savings

A SOLAR panel company has shown one couple how to use their roof to help save money.

Mike Foxon from Cranfield has just had a 3.825kWp solar PV system installed by Solar Partner Ltd.

The company designed, supplied and installed the system and is based in Newport Pagnell

The couple decided to have a solar PV system installed on their rear southeast-facing roof, to generate clean electricity and cut the cost of daily living expenses.

Solar Partner Ltd claims the initial investment is likely to see an income and savings of over £1,500 a year, tax free, for 25 years with the new feed-in tariff initiative.

Mike will be paid 41.3p by his electricity company for every unit of electricity generated, plus 3p for every unit he doesn't use and exports to the grid. His system is likely to make in excess of 3,050 units of electricity a year.

Mike said: "The savings I now make on the electricity bill each month I can put towards other things.

"It's definitely worth it. Even now I can see the savings. Friends have asked why I'd invested so much money into this, but I wanted my savings to go a long way and much better to spend it on this when you get guaranteed returns of around 12 per cent index linked and tax free."

"The environment is another reason for going solar. How nice would it be if all homes went solar powered? I like to think I'm investing in the future for my grandchildren."

It's October - Frost Is Only Around The Corner - Be Prepared

Gardening Tips

Follow these useful tips from the experts at your local family owned Garden Centre

Look after your greenhouse

If you've not already done so, now's the time for a good clean out in your greenhouse. Take out all those pots and stuff that you have been using all year and have left in there and put them in the shed. You could tidy that up another day!

Next it's time to wash the greenhouse down. Just use a little detergent and disinfectant and a scrubbing brush. Getting the glass clean will allow more light through in the dark days and cleaning the frame will remove pests looking for a good spot to spend the winter. If you are going to be using the greenhouse through the winter, you can now insulate it. Bubble wrap is perfect for that. It might be an idea to line the greenhouse with polythene sheeting to conserve heat. Don't forget you will still need some ventilation or mould will soon appear all over.

Store Away Your Vegetables

It's important to lift potatoes before the end of the month as black keel slugs really come alive in November. Allow the potatoes to dry off and then store in hessian or paper sacks, but never plastic. Lift beetroot, twisting off the tops, lift carrots, and store both in the same way as the potatoes.

As ground becomes vacant you can dig it over and spread manure over the surface. Leave the soil roughly dug in large clumps so that the worms can break these up as they get the manure. The freezing and thawing of water in the soil will cause the soil to break up finely so becoming easier to handle in the spring.

Time To Turn Your Compost Bins

Your compost bins will be filling up at this time of year and so now is a good time to give them a turn to help even the rotting. Cover them to keep them warm and damp rather than soaking wet. Rake up fallen leaves and either place them in the compost heap or pile them up to make leaf mould.

Bring Colour To Your Bedding

At some time this month you will have to get rid of all your summer bedding, which may still be looking good. The frosts could arrive anytime and looking good will suddenly not be! You need to get planted the bedding that is going to give you colour during the winter. Examples of colourful winter plants are Pyracantha, Cornus (Dogwood), Junipers, ornamental cabbages, hardy pansies and all berry carrying shrubs. Pansies are more likely to flower through the winter if they are established before the cold weather really sets in and slows them down.

Prepare For Spring

Finish planting bulbs that are going to flower in the spring. This includes dwarf bulbs for planting in rockeries and raised beds. Bulbs can still be planted for forcing indoors. Hyacinths and large flowered bulb irises can now be planted, and tulips towards the end of the month.

Sow herb seeds such as parsley, dill and coriander in pots to harvest from the windowsill during the winter.

How About Planting An Apple Tree

As mentioned last month, plant trees at this time of the year while the soil is warm for the roots to take hold. How about a nice apple tree? They prefer full sun, although they will tolerate some shade. Pick a position that will not become water-logged. Do not forget to apply a grease band to the trunk as they are vital in keeping the over-wintering pests away. Apple trees are tolerant of most soil conditions. But perfect conditions are a crumbly soil with medium fertility and slightly on the acid side.

Container-grown plants can be planted any time of the year, but are easier to care for if planted in autumn before any frosts, as they need less watering than ones planted in spring or summer.

SIMON DARNELL

AMBITIONS
Joe McElderry

WHAT better way to start your pop music career proper than with two covers on the trot?
Apparently, Joe McElderry's advisers can't think of one, so here we are.
You might not have heard of this song before, but it was recently a massive hit just down the road in Norway for a band called Donkeyboy.
High notes, strumming guitars, anthemic feel to the proceedings, big uplifting chorus, you know how these songs go.
Now, usually I'd be laying into the new version for being a lazy retread of the original, so let's see how it copes with my usual criticisms.
1 – the tune is recreated note for note and done with the minimum of effort. Well, no, not this time. Joe's version is slightly faster and there's more going on with his version as well. That's not very difficult to do, after all the original is stripped down to the basics, but this take has a bit more life to it.
2 – the singer sings the words off the card, but has no idea or interest as to what it means because someone else chose the song for him. Ah... well now, this is where it gets interesting. Joe McElderry doesn't just sing it, he sounds like he wrote it from experience. There's no higher praise I can give to a singer who's singing someone else's song than that.
3 –the new version strips away all of the things that made the original good, leaving behind something that sounds like a contractual obligation. Not here it doesn't. If anything, this version improves on the original.
This is a very good pop song done very well.
Now, the video... yeah, well, the less said the better.

HUMANOID
Talay Riley

AT the risk of sounding like your dad, this has got a good tune to it.
Electronic noises all over the shop, from bleeps to squelchy noises and all sorts in between. Even the AutoTuning works here because it's supposed to sound artificial.
The lyrics are nonsense but, even so, I actually don't mind this one.

TWINKLETWONKLE

Saturday, October 16. 2.30pm.

In association with the Royal Society in their 350th year, Tall Stories presents a sparkling new adventure inspired by the rhymes of Mother Goose and the science of the Big Bang

Stella loves the stars... Every evening she gazes up at them through her telescope. Her little brother Ryan loves nursery rhymes and fits them into his life whenever he can. He's sure that there's a man in the moon, and he reckons that if you look up for long enough you'll see a cow jumping over the moon too.

Stella, of course, knows better. But one night, while gazing at constellations of the Great Bear and the Little Bear, Ryan and Stella see a brand new constellation in the night sky a Medium-Sized Bear. And worse, Ryan's favourite teddy bear has gone missing.....!

When Ryan extends the telescope all the way up and starts climbing into the stars in search of his bear, Stella has no choice but to follow. It's dangerous up there and Ryan could fall into a black hole and be spaghettified... Will Stella find Ryan in the night sky and solve the mysteries of the universe before it's too late?

Suitable for ages four-plus

GARDEN LIFE

Hedgehogs high on garden watch list

A QUARTER of Buckinghamshire gardens regularly have visiting hedgehogs according to participants in the RSPB's summer wildlife survey

The 'Make Your Nature Count' survey also showed that the prickly visitors are sighted in almost a third of urban gardens.

Experts believe that the high numbers of hedgehogs in gardens prove what a refuge they can be, as a loss of quality hedgehog habitat in the countryside makes it increasingly difficult for them to survive further afield.

More than 1,400 people in Buckinghamshire took part in the RSPB's summer wildlife survey.

Analysis has shown that hedgehogs are seen in good numbers in both rural and urban areas, whereas most mammals are much more common in rural gardens.

Richard Bashford, RSPB Make Your Nature Count organiser, said: "Many thanks to everyone who helped us collect this fascinating information about our garden wildlife.

"For many species the only way of counting them is to ask people to take part in a garden survey like this and some of the results have been quite surprising. Lots of people see hedgehogs, moles and deer in their gardens which you may only expect to see in the wider countryside.

"The range of creatures we have in UK gardens highlights how important wildlife friendly gardening is, wherever you live, to ensure our fabulous wildlife continues to survive."

Hugh Warwick, hedgehog expert, says: "Gardens are clearly very important for hedgehogs a great example of a truly wild animal not only at home with us but also of great benefit to gardeners.

"The hedgehog not only brings a voracious appetite for garden pests, it represents a little bit of wildness."

Thirty per cent of people taking part in urban areas have seen hedgehogs in their gardens before, and more than one in seven see them regularly. They were reported from 48 per cent of gardens in rural areas where more than a quarter of participants see them at least monthly.

Participants were also asked to report moles and roe deer for the first time this year.

Fourteen per cent in the UK recorded mole sightings, including mole hills, with one in six detecting them regularly.

Roe deer, a native species, were recorded in five per cent of gardens in the UK with most sightings in Scotland.

Make Your Nature Count was one of the first garden wildlife surveys since the extraordinarily cold winter and participants also recorded common birds.

The RSPB also asked questions about how well robins, blackbirds and song thrushes are breeding.

The survey, which took place in June, also showed that the blackbird is still the most frequent visitor although it has declined slightly since last year, recorded in 92 per cent of all gardens, followed by the woodpigeon in 86 per cent. The blue tit takes third place in 79 per cent of Buckinghamshire gardens

Next year's Make Your Nature Count will take place from June 4-12.

For more information on attracting wildlife to your garden visit www.rspb.org.uk/hfw

Flag-bearer Robertson teams up for winning start

ANTHONY Clarke clocked up his 100th cap for England as the badminton team got their Commonwealth Games under way.

England triumphed in their mixed team pools game against Uganda thanks to Rajiv Ouseph in the men's singles and Liz Cann in the women's singles.

Nathan Robertson, who was the flag bearer for England, won with Jenny Wallwork.

And Wallwork joined Gabby White to round things off 5-0 with a women's doubles win.

They will return to the court today (Wednesday) for games against Mauritius and Canada.

Table tennis star Andrew Baggaley is competing in the men's team for table tennis this week, while MK's Greg Rutherford will compete in the long jump qualifiers on Friday.

Training fun pays off as Lightning put down Dogs

– but no laughs next day as feisty Phoenix fire in five

Action from the Sheffield game

THERE was a new netminder at MK Lightning last week.

He had never played ice hockey before, and looked unsteady on his skates but, before Lightning fans fear Nick Poole made a horror signing, it was all part of a television show.

The city's ice hockey side let former football player and manager Chris Kamara take up position in goal as part of the TV pundit's Kammy Do It? series for Soccer AM.

Lightning, who endured a mixed weekend in the Premier League with a win over Sheffield Steeldogs but a defeat to Manchester Phoenix, invited Kamara to Planet Ice and challenged him to save at least half of the shots he faced from the team.

General manager Vito Rausa said: "It was hilarious watching someone who had obviously never skated before trying to make his way to the crease and face a barrage of shots."

The fun and games in training appeared to pay off as Lightning recorded a dominate 4-0 win at home to Sheffield Steeldogs on Saturday.

It was Lightning who had the steel at the back as the defence held strong to ensure a Lukas Zatopek hat-trick and a strike from Gary Clarke were enough for two points.

However, the following day Lightning were defeated in a feisty seven-goal thrilling encounter with Manchester Phoenix.

Michael Wales and Phoenix's Curtis Huppe were both given two plus 10 penalties, Grant McPherson and Tony Hand were also penalised for roughing before Marcus Kristofferson fired Phoenix ahead.

Adding to the tensions McPherson was then thrown out of the game for slashing Kristofferson, yet Lightning were able to level the scores through Monir Kalgoum.

Tom Duggan ensured Phoenix had the lead after a lively first period which Zatopek was able to cancel out early in the second.

However, Greg Wood, James Archer and Huppe all netted further goals to seal a Phoenix win.

Lions impress to plunder Pirates

ESSEX PIRATES 69	MK LIONS 102
Hesson 27, Toluwase 11, Sing 10	Gardner 23, Gil 16, Williams 14

A THUMPING victory got MK Lions' season up and running as they recorded their first points in the BBL Trophy with an impressive first win under coach Mike New.

The Lions were in control of the game from the start as they led from tip-off to buzzer in a strong first quarter which saw them embark on a 13-3 run.

Jelani Gardner, making his first appearance, dictated things as the Lions doused the Pirates to lead 19-31 after the first quarter.

Veteran Gardner came up trumps with 23 points in the encounter, however, in the second stanza Lions' younger players had an impact.

Anthony Hasse came off the bench to net a pair of three-points while Lawerence Brown, at a towering 7ft 1ins, also added valuable points on the board to give Lions a 35-48 lead at half-time.

Essex tried to claw their way back with some excellent work by Myles Hesson, who totalled 25 points, but Lions never let complacency creep in and piled on the agony in the third quarter.

The Lions managed to get every player on the score sheet as Pirates were kept to just 13 points in 10 minutes.

A 15-1 run for New's side saw them take the scores to 88-52 and from their it was plain sailing until the buzzer.

■ LIONS travel to Leicester Riders for their BBL Trophy game on Saturday, tip-off 7.30pm, and on Sunday their BBL Championship campaign begins against Mersey Tigers at Stoke Mandeville Stadium. Tip-off 5pm.

MK Dons assistant manager JOHN GORMAN writes exclusively for MK NEWS every week

LEAGUE One is going to be a yo-yo division this year - I think it's going to be up and down all season.

As it stands we're two points from the play-offs, five points away from being second and four points from the relegation zone.

Ten days ago had we got the point from the Peterborough game, which we felt we deserved, we'd have been right up the top half of the league.

It will change again, I always think people make their minds up too early.

At the moment Brighton seem to be the top team but I guarantee there will be others. Huddersfield were top early in the season and now they've dropped down to the middle of the table.

I can't see any outstanding team at the moment who are going to walk away with it - I might be wrong but I just can't see it.

Just look at Southampton, everybody thought they were going to start the season flying and it's not been the way, but I think they'll be up there.

It's like us, we're going to have a couple of bad games, we need to start winning away from home again which I know we're very capable of.

I'd like to think that once we get all of our players back we will be back in the frame again.

Every team is very professional in this league, we saw that with Colchester on Saturday - they're unbeaten so that's why it's not as bad a result as people might make out.

We weren't at our best in the first-half in particular, the manager spoke in no uncertain terms about it, and we came out in the second-half and we did play better, obviously Angelo's goal was the highlight.

It was a wonderful individual effort, a great throw from David Martin set him on his way from the halfway line and it was what I expected from Angelo.

I think this Saturday we're going to have an exciting game against Dagenham and Rebridge.

We're looking for three points to get us in the thick of it again.

Mark Carrington gets above Jose Semedo as Mathias Kouo-Doumbe looks to pick up the pieces

Dons bow out of Trophy

Howell's flick-on in to the box allowed Angelo Balanta and Lewis Guy to combine before threading through to Chadwick.

And Charlton stood and watched as he picked out the bottom corner from the edge of the six-yard box.

The Dons had control, although that could have changed when Wagstaff was able to cut a great ball back for Lee Martin, but before the striker could line up a shot Peter Leven made a goal-saving challenge.

After a poor start Charlton began to carry more threat as they went on the attack, and it was largely down to the pace and determination of Wagstaff.

The winger got the better of Dean Lewington on a number of occasions, yet there was no one around to sting the Dons with a finish.

There were flashes of entertainment in the match with Lewington getting his head on the end of Leven's free-kick, but it fell at a comfortable height for Rob Elliot to collect.

While it was quiet for David Martin between the Dons sticks as Therry Racon had a thunderous shot bravely closed down by Woodards.

Two minutes into the second-half Elliot made a terrific block with his legs to deny Dons a second, this time from Leven's point-blank effort at the near post.

Having been in the driving seat the Dons were caught napping and, in the blink of an eye, Charlton levelled.

Reid burst down the left flank with no Dons player chasing him down the winger whipped in the most accurate of deliveries for Abbott to equalise with a thumping header.

Guy embarked on a similar run up the other end of the pitch, however, Wilbraham's volley was well off-target.

The Addicks had momentum and confusion in defence almost saw the Dons concede an own goal when Mathias Kouo-Doumbe came close to turning the ball into his own net - leaving Howell to make an on-the-line clearance.

And Kouo-Doumbe then came within inches of giving the Dons the lead as Leven's throw-in found him but the header nestled into the side netting.

The defender was again denied when Wagstaff threw his body on the line to prevent yet another nodded effort from the Frenchman.

However, Addicks had the final say when Wagstaff's outstretched foot knocked another cross from Reid in at the far post.

Not even five minutes of added time could help the Dons take the game into a penalty shoot-out.

Rollicking sees point salvaged

MK DONS 1

COLCHESTER UNITED 1

Okuonghae 25

A HALF-TIME rollicking from boss Karl Robinson ensured MK Dons recovered from their worst 45 minutes to earn a point from unbeaten Colchester United.

Robinson gave his players a dressing down for a first-half performance that could have seen them trailing the U's by four goals.

Instead, due to some poor finishing from the Colchester men, the Dons needed just one goal to regain level terms.

And it came as a result of the half-time 'talk' and the introduction of Angelo Balanta

Robinson did not reveal what was discussed but insisted every word of his riot act was said to provoke a reaction from his under-performers.

He said: "It was a verbal attack, a calculated one. I was very precise in the message I wanted to get across - people need to buck up otherwise they know what the consequences will be. We played extremely poor and we got a point - there's no logic to this game."

Dons were poor defensively, not helped by an early injury to David MacKenzie, which allowed Colchester to build up pressure and create several chances in front of goal.

Anthony Woodsworth, David Mooney and Ashley Vincent all missed wonderful opportunities from inside the six-yard box.

But it was the strike of an unmarked Magnus Okuonghae who was allowed the time and space to control on his chest before picking out the bottom corner of David Martin's net.

Luckily for the Dons Balanta shone in the second-half and inspired a much improved display.

The Colombian winger, on loan from QPR, dragged the scores level with a superb individual effort as he collected Martin's long throw on the halfway line, raced down the wing before cutting inside and drilling beyond Mark Cousins.

Robinson said: "It was a poor first half, a better second half, topped off by a wonder goal."

MKSPORTSRUGBY ROUND UP

BLETCHLEY 18 WIMBORNE 22

BLETCHLEY'S hunt for a first home win continues as they were narrowly beaten by Wimborne.

The visitors successfully converted a penalty to get on the score sheet before Tim Stobbs made a try saving tackle to prevent Wimborne extending their lead.

However, that only delayed the inevitable as a converted try saw Wimborne go 10-0 ahead after 33 minutes.

A penalty from Phil Harman managed to claw three points back for Bletchley, but their defence was once again breached to leave the home side trailing 3-17 at half-time.

After the break George Harman pulled back three points with Bletchley's second penalty, yet a catalogue of errors then allowed Wimborne to score their third try of the afternoon.

As time began to run out Bletchley went on the charge and Wimborne had a man sent to the sin bin.

A quick tap penalty saw Simon Pitfield run unopposed to score and with Phil Harman adding the extras Bletchley trailed 13-22.

With eight minutes remaining Bletchley managed to seal a losing bonus point as Jack Couzens offloaded to Ben Robinson who scored out wide.

OAKMEDIANS 30 OLNEY 32

OLNEY extended their lead at the top of the table to three points as they clung on to their unbeaten record at Oakmedians.

Making the result all the more impressive Olney had to fight from 18-0 down as they were made to pay for their sluggish start.

However, Kevin Smith, James Hannah, Chris Parnham and Scott Walker all crossed the try line to help Olney to the win.

Mark Marwood also added 12 points with the boot to see off Oakmedians, who missed a conversion late in the game that would have condemned Olney to defeat.

Olney have now scored an impressive 141 points, the second highest in the table, and conceded just 91 points from their five games.

DAGENHAM AND REDBRIDGE

League One
Saturday, October 9
stadiummk KO 3pm

THESE two sides have already met this season in the Carling Cup.

On that day Dagenham and Redbridge looked set for a cup upset until Jabo Ibehre came off the bench to score twice and take the Dons through to the next round. But three points on Saturday will mean much more to both teams.

Dons are hoping to end a run of four League One games without victory, having drawn two and lost two, while Dagenham are looking to push up the table following their promotion.

While the Dons were in midweek action in the JPT, Dagenham had seven days to recover from their 2-1 win against Swindon Town.

Daggers boss John Still described the victory over the Robins as the greatest in the club's history.

Poulter in no doubt he'd deliver on cup

IAN Poulter never had any doubt he would deliver a point for Europe during one of the most thrilling contests in Ryder Cup history.

And it was just as well the Woburn pro came up trumps at Celtic Manor, or Europe would be reflecting on defeat against the United States, rather than a spectacular 14 1/2 - 13 1/2 success.

"I said in the morning on the range I would deliver a point," recalled Poulter.

Poulter was one of only four European players who won their singles matches - Graeme McDowell, Luke Donald and Miguel Angel Jimenez were the others - with McDowell beating Hunter Mahan on the 17th in a final game shoot-out.

Dustin Johnson's 6 and 4 victory over Martin Kaymer apart, Poulter enjoyed the day's biggest individual triumph when he saw off Matt Kuchar 5 and 4.

He added: "I am pretty passionate about this format, I love the Ryder Cup. I've watched so many matches over the years. I love it from the first tee, the songs, and being with all 11 team-mates. It truly is the best tournament in the world, and it always will be."

It was McDowell who took centre-stage though, conquering his nerves amid almost unbearable pressure in front of 35,000 spectators to drag Europe over the finishing line.

Poulter kept his army of fans up to date throughout the rain-soaked tournament via the social network website Twitter.

After Europe sealed their victory he tweeted: "On our way onto stage this is the best feeling in the world, I love the Ryder Cup. For u Seve and Monty."
